The Paddocks

The Paddocks (Maxwell Road, Para Hills) has again come under SA Police spotlight, with a number of complaints made about the increase in behavioural offences in the park in recent weeks.

A well-known beat, there are also reports of commercial sex work being undertaken in the park.

Police have responded to the complaints by increasing their presence at The Paddocks.

A spokesperson said Police will increase their presence even further over the next two months. This includes plain clothes officers and a greater number of uniformed patrols.

Salisbury Council has also responded by trimming more trees at The Paddocks and putting further resources into tidying the park.

If anyone has any information in relation to offences being committed in the Paddocks Area Police are urging them to contact them at the time on 131 444 or through the ELIZABETH and SALISBURY Gay and Lesbian Liaison Officers (GLLOs).

SAPOL is committed to working with the City of Salisbury Council, Gay Men's Health and other community groups to ensure that the Paddocks is a safe place to visit for all users of the community.
